At its meeting on 27 September 1957 the President's Board of Consultants was advised with reference to the recommendation that further action was awaiting the over-all review of the National Security Council Intelligence Directives now in progress. The revised NSCIDs will spell out more clearly the organization and responsibilities of the intelligence community as a whole and its member agencies individually. This review will bring to light any organizational changes which may be necessary within the community. It is anticipated that the review of NSCIDs will be concluded by the Intelligence Advisory Committee by 1 January 1958. A report on the status of this review was sent to the Honorable Robert Cutler on 22 September 1957.
